

Lab Link business basic plan

... Development of the business with a network theory and Holistic approach...

1. Business plan with holistic approach and process of the long-term

- * We construct short term business plan based on long-term policy. We shift plan reality by small step. Based on a general interdependence design, core member of Lab Link makes out administration, business maintenance with holistic viewpoint .

2. The construction of the main hub

- * As we develop network system by life law, we design as follows .
One or two people develop each business, build and maintenance the business.
- * We design total system that ten people can maintain and administer total systems.
As we can decline personnel expenses, the profit can distribute to participations of social network system.

3. The construction of the network hub

- * Before we build network system, we build network hub in every each business for differentiation in each business.
- * We select top of the organization or person who link hundred unit people as the network hub.
